Weekly Learning Letter

This week in Nursery

We love numbers! The children are really enjoying our number focus and are fully embracing our number related activities. We continue to support their understanding that number relates to a quantity and have been particularly focused on the digit 2. We have been singing, counting, writing, drawing, collaging, cooking and hunting the number 2! The children have been impressing us with their focus and eagerness to learn and to share what they already know. They are also particularly enjoying writing different digits.

The children have rediscovered the mud kitchen this week. They have been experimenting with adding water and commenting on what happens to the mud's texture. They have been making magical potions and interesting stews! The children also seem to be taking much more of an interest in the world around them and have been noticing the aeroplanes flying overhead. As a result, they made an airport outside and their own aeroplane, with

Amy as the pilot. They travelled to Spain, France, London, space and Forest Hill! They were then fascinated with watching footage of planes landing during their snack time. Staying with the travel theme, we enjoyed our first session playing with the nursery's new road and traffic signs. The children have been learning what each sign means then diligently following the rules of the road! With so much love for travel, next week the home corner will become a travel agent, as who doesn't like to plan for a holiday! Get your passports and tickets ready!

We hope you have a lovely weekend.
